

is proud to host

ROBERT FISK

as guest speaker for its 60th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) speaking series.

With more than 30 years reporting on the Middle East, Robert Fisk is the most decorated British Foreign correspondent. He writes daily for The Independent and has been awarded the British International Journalist of the Year Award seven times. He has also received the Amnesty International UK Press Award twice.

Robert Fisk

Journalist and author, Robert Fisk needs little introduction to New Zealand audiences - his book, The Great War for Civilisation has sold more per capita here than any other country.

Robert Fisk's truth telling has endeared him to those crying out for their story to be told and thinking people around the world...and not at all to those found wanting in his concise, outraged reportage from the Middle East.

“ My own journalism over the past five years has concentrated more and more on the sheer hypocrisy of the political-military-journalistic nexus of power which is deployed to fool us, to persuade us to follow policies which are contrary to our national interest and against all morality. ”

Robert Fisk, The Age of the Warrior

Robert Fisk's visit is sponsored by:

* Hear Robert Fisk talk about the Middle East and human rights during an evening chaired by Human Rights Commissioner Jeremy Pope

8.30pm, Sunday, September 7th

* Hear Robert Fisk talk about reporting from the front line during an evening chaired by SCOOP journalist Gordon Campbell.

7.30pm, Monday, September 8th

VENUE: Embassy Theatre
Kent Terrace
Wellington

Tickets: $25
$20 (students/snr citizens)

via Ticketek: www.ticketek.com
(service fees may apply)