

Board Nominee – 2019

Current Board member seeking re-election.

Rosslyn Noonan

Rosslyn Noonan was elected to the Amnesty International Governance Team in 2013 and has been the Vice-Chair since 2014. She has had a range of governance and management experience.

A long-time supporter of Amnesty International, she emphasises the importance of its membership base and believes it has a vital role to play in strengthening human rights in New Zealand, across Asia-Pacific and around the world. Amnesty International, she says, has a vital contribution to strengthening human rights in Aotearoa New Zealand as we face up to the challenges of revealed by the Mosque massacres.

She is currently chairing a Ministerial Review of the Family Justice Services, has a part-time position as Director of the New Zealand Centre for Human Rights Law, Policy and Practice at Auckland University, is researching a biography of Dr W.B. Sutch, and works with national human rights institutions across Asia-Pacific.
